Important Terms about China

1. A New Form of International Relations

The new form of international relations advocated by China rejects the Cold War mentality and the zero-sum game. It features mutual respect, fairness and justice, and win-win cooperation. Of all these elements, "win-win cooperation" is the core.

2. The spirit of the Silk Road

The ancient Silk Road was a trade route that spanned thousands of miles. It had been a platform for people-to-people and cultural exchanges, where ethnic, racial, religious and cultural convergence took place for centuries. Interaction along this route has shaped the Silk Road spirit, which is embodied in peace and cooperation, openness and inclusiveness, mutual learning and mutual benefit. The Belt and Road Initiative, proposed by China in 2013, is a continuation of this spirit. The Belt and Road is a road of peace, prosperity, opening up, innovation and a road connecting different civilizations.

3. Concept of Global Governance

China follows the principle of achieving shared growth through discussion and collaboration. We stand for democracy in international relations and the equality of all countries, big or small, strong or weak, rich or poor. China supports the United Nations in playing an active role in international affairs, and supports the efforts of other developing countries to increase their representation and strengthen their voice in international affairs.

4. Global Partnerships

China has actively developed global partnerships and expanded the convergence of interests with other countries. China will promote coordination and cooperation with other major countries and work to build a framework for major- country relations featuring overall stability and balanced development. China will deepen relations with its neighbors in accordance with the principle of amity, sincerity, mutual benefit, and inclusiveness and the policy of forging friendship and partnership with its neighbors. China will, guided by the principle of upholding justice while pursuing shared interests and the principle of sincerity, real results, affinity, and good faith, work to strengthen solidarity and cooperation with other developing countries.
